At the Milan Triennial in 1936 Alvar Aalto unveiled his design for an easy chair that deviated sharply from earlier models. Its wide, sturdy armrests are of bent wood. It is a low-slung and heavy, solidly shaped easy chair. Perhaps for that reason the chair received its "tank" nickname. This handsome chair is unique within the context of Aalto's extensive output.

Natural lacquered Birch, Seat with no-sag springs, PU foam and dacron
Upholstery options: Artek's standard fabric (as shown) or customer's own fabric or leather.
